

Master's in Public Policy, Public Administration, and Public Administration/International Development Fellowships for 2004-2005

The Kokkalis Program on Southeastern and East-Central Europe awards fellowships to enable individuals with outstanding intellectual promise from its region of focus to pursue Master's degrees at the John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University.

Eligible to apply for the 2004-2005 Kokkalis Fellowship Program are natives of Albania, Bosnia-Herzegovina, Bulgaria, Croatia, Greece, Hungary, the Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, Moldova, Romania, Serbia and Montenegro, and Turkey who are applying to one of the following degree programs at the John F. Kennedy School of Government: Master in Public Policy (MPP); Master in Public Administration (MPA2); Mid-Career Master in Public Administration (MC/MPA); Master in Public Administration in International Development (MPA/ID).

Candidates must hold an undergraduate degree recognized by their native state and an academic and/or professional background in one of the following fields: social sciences, public policy and/or administration, the non-profit sector, law, economics, business, or work experience in related fields. All applicants should demonstrate a strong commitment to public service and the region of Southeastern Europe.

Candidates must complete both the Kennedy School application for admission and the Kokkalis Fellowship application and can submit all materials electronically. Prospective applicants should visit <http://www.ksg.harvard.edu/kokkalis/fellowships.html> for details on the full application process.
